Utah is home to 13 world-class ski & snowboard resorts, 11 located within an hour of Salt Lake City International Airport. Collectively, Utah's resorts are home to over 26,000 skiable acres of the most accessible terrain in North America. Utah is known worldwide for its Greatest Snow on Earth[®], with an average of 500 inches of the lightest, driest powder blanketing Utah's pristine slopes each winter. Because most of Utah's resorts lie in such close proximity to each other, it is easy for visitors to ski several resorts during one vacation. Whether you're a novice or expert, looking to ski immaculate, corduroy-groomed slopes or bottomless, deep powder, Utah resorts offer it all.

Utah Olympic Park

OLYMPIC PARK

Specifically built for the 2002 Olympics, the Utah Olympic Park was the site for the ski jumping, bobsled, skeleton and luge. The park is open year-round, and visitors can walk through the Alf Engen Ski Museum, watch athletes in training and participate in a long list of activities. 3000 Bear Hollow Drive, Park City, 435-658-4200, www.utaholympicpark.com
